Host: Jeffrey L. Sedgwick, JRSA Executive Director

Guests: Doris James, Acting Director, Bureau of Justice Statistics
        William H. Clements, Vice President & Dean, Norwich University
Goal 1: A Strong Position of Independence

Goal 2: To build, maintain, and utilize statistical systems that describe the extent and characteristics of crime in our nation and the status and response of the justice system.

Goal 3: To provide comprehensive statistical coverage of all parts of the criminal justice system, including the longitudinal flow of persons and cases through the system and their return to the community.

Goal 4: To ensure access to statistics and data on crime and justice by the American public, the U.S. Congress, the U.S. Department of Justice and other executive agencies, and state and local government agencies.
